Key Learning this term...

This term Class 4 are learning about Wolves and the world.

Our literacy lessons will be based upon the text 'Wolf Wilder'. We will use this text as a stimulus for our writing. The children will produce a variety of text types such as: non-chronological reports, newspaper articles and poetry. We will teach grammar principles daily, including the use of hyphens and dashes, as well as dictated sentences allowing children to practice the skills.

In Maths we are focusing on decimals and percentages and how they link to fractions. We will consolidate our arithmetic learning through short fluency sessions. We will be working on a variety of worded problems throughout our maths sessions to ensure that children can apply their fluency knowledge.

We will explore our learning this half term, through a variety of other subjects. In Geography we will explore climate and biomes focusing on the habitat of wolves, we will even create our own biome in a bottle! In Science we will explore light and carry out investigations covering Newton's theory.

Our PSHE sessions will focus upon exploring our emotions. In RE we are focusing on what different religions say when life gets hard.

Recommended Read!

Mr Williams recommends:

I highly recommend 'The boy who swam with Piranhas' by David Almond. I have shared this book with many children and they have all loved it. It is a heart-warming read and tells a story of a boy that leaves his family to join the circus. The main character (Stanley) is very likeable and the children will enjoy following his journey towards fame!
